PANAMINTS NOT TO BE CONDEMNED YET

Clarence E. Eddy's New Camp Is Treated Fairly in Rhyolite

EDDY NOT TO BLAME FOR THE STAMPEDE

Developement Work Is Now Required to Find Source of Values.

New in the Rhyolite Herald would give another aspect to the new Panamint district of Inyo county, Cal., recently found by C. E. Eddy, and which has been the recipient of some pretty hard knocks on the part of the stampeders who failed to reckon with the terrible heat of Death Valley at the time they made the trip across:

"G. T. Keene, one of the editors of the Rhyolite Herald, upon his arrival in camp from the heart-breaking trip across Death Valley to the Panamints, took strong exception to the interview in the Herald, which seemed to intimate that Messrs. LeCompte and Simpson had intentionally misrepresented conditions in that camp. These young men have made two trips across the valley, and that alone is sufficient evidence of integrity to the mind of one who has been along that road to hades. They are above any such suspicion, and the writer takes pleasure in assuring our readers that the wording of last week's interview was exceedingly unfortunate, and is deeply regretted on account of the false impression it might give to those unacquainted with the gentlemen mentioned.

"There are several things which have bearing on the case which are worthy of consideration. In the first place they were sent out not as prespectors, but to locate ground adjacent to that owned by Mr. Eddy and associates. They secured eighteen claims, and on two of them found what they considered good indications, sufface samples from which gave fair pannings rival in camp from the heart breaking considered good indications, surface samples from which gave fair panning samples from which gave fair painings with heavy concentrates. Samples sent in assayed as high as $29.40. Then the Fairbanks strike was heralded as a world-beater, and as the Lost Inca appeared to have identically the same stuff, asturally the boys believed their find was as good, if not better. They had no assay outfit nor acids to test the rock in any way and had to rely on the opinions of other prospectors, who expressed the belief that the find was rich. They were naturally filled with exuberance, which was expressed in a letter to their backers in Rhyolite. This letter, following the news of the This letter, following the news of the big assays from the Fairbanks strike, caused a stampede to the new Elda-rado, and some evidently expected to find the ground strewn with certified checks, and were accordingly disap-rounted.

"Mr. Eddy and Messrs. Simpson and LeCompte, backed up by some pros-pectors who have visited Johnson's canyon, and others who have examined the real broads are standfast. the rock brought back, are steadfast in the belief that the camp should not be condemned at this stage of the game. It is worth more prospecting and a reasonable amount of development work to determine whether or not the scalled only proposed the scall the so-called gash veins might develop into chimneys of ore, with a true con-tact down beneath. Some old pros-pectors who have trod the Panamiuts pectors who have tred the Panamints promptly say. 'I told you so; there are only pockets in the Panamints,' evidently overlooking the fact that Skidoo is a child of this blacklisted range, and that camp is very much range, and that camp is very much alive in a mining way, with wonder-ful surface showings, which are being followed deep down into the earth. They also lose sight of the fact that mining is even now going on within a few miles of Johnson's canyon, and good ore is being taken out. It may be true that this canyon is of sedi-mentary formation, but if that is the case some one should discover the lode from whence these densities comfrom whence these deposits con Great will be the day when it brought to light.

Eddy Gets Justice.

"In justice to Mr. Eddy, it must be admitted that he has all along ad-vised against a stampede to the Pana-mints across Death Valley, maintain mints across Death Valley, maintaining a conservatism that was of itself the cause of a suspicion in the minds of many that he had something so good over there that he wanted others to stay away. A brief account of his operations may be of interest. The first locations were made in April by E. G. Gould, and early in May he was accompanied to Johnson's canyon by Mr. Eddy, when they made several more locations. Samples of the rock assayed by Simons gave returns as high as by Simons gave returns as high as $41.90 in gold, silver and copper.

"This canyon has for sixty years been the abiding place of Hungry Bill, an old Indian, who has reared his family within its sheltering fastnesses, and who now looks with anger upon the encreachments of the white men. Nevertheless, they went shead with their locating and sampling, which re-Nevertheless, they went shead with their locating and sampling, which returned $28 in gold from a dyke 200 feet in width. After securing these returns Mr. Eddy and associates took options on Gould's interests. The third series of samples were secured upon another pilgrimage to the canyon, and assays made in Salt Lake City ran as high as $98 in gold, silver and copper. It seems that the Indians for years have known of various outcroppings where gold and silver could be found, and when they saw that the white men and when they saw that the white men were locating much ground, hurried off to Greenwater after Fairbanks and associates to belp them hold the ground which they had partially opened up on which they had partially opened up on the surface. One of these croppings they had known of for many years and had secured showings of high silver and gold values. This formation seemingly intersected the holdings of Eddy and associates, who at that stage of the game took up the options they held. "Whether or not this camp will prove of permanent and extensive value is still a question, but this is a fact true of nearly all camps in the history of mining. Their future cannot be definitely determined by surface showings, but by development."

LOST BULLION CASES.

Alleged Wild-Catters Are on Trial in the Denver Courts.

the Denver Courts.

DENVER, Aug. 8.—Taking of testimony in the Lost Builion Spanish Mines company case, which began yesterday, was continued today. The Lost Builion Spanish Mines company has been in existence since October 4, 1908, when the promoters placed organization stock on the market. Their claims to the public were that a mine of fabulous richness near Silver City. N. M. which was worked by the Spaniards under Cortez, in 1600, had been sealed up by the Spaniards when they were driven away by the Indians, and had never been re-located until 1906. Interesting literature was sen all over the country by the promoters, and they are said to have reaped a hervest of fully $30,000 from the working people of the country. The men under indictment are C. L. Blackman of the fiscal firm of C. L. Blackman & Company, A. E. Keables, R. C. Hunt, Arthur Levan, D. H. Lawrence, D. P. Pinkus and Edward Sebben of Denver and W. B. Cameron of Boulder and George S. and Lee Dubers, formerly of Silver City, and now of Littleton. The trial is expected to develop some sensational testimony.

IS BINGHAM ON VERGE OF STRIKE?

Miners Contemplate Demand for Fifty-Cent Increase to the Man.

ALL UNDERGROUND WORKMEN INVOLVED

May Mean Complete Close Down of Great Properties in Famous Camp.

Everything indicates that before the expiration of the present month the great copper camp of Bingham will be in the threes of the greatest labor conflict in the history of the State of Utah. Gloomy rumors have been rampant for several days. Although local and interested circles have been expecting unfavorable developments for several months past, it was hoped that the present season would wear away before any strike would be contemplated by the mining unions of the

That there was fear of labor troubles last December was apparent by the fact that the companies operating in Bingham voluntarily agreed to raise the wages of all the miners and employees round the mines 25 cents a man per day. It is understood at the princes time that the miners are to demand a flat increase of 50 cents per day over the present schedule for every man who goes under ground, without regard to the character of work that he may be called upon to do.

regard to the character of work that he may be called upon to do.

No demand has as yet been made to this effect, but that such a demand will be made within the next few days is taken for granted in local circles. Should the demand be made, it will involve all the mines of Bingham, in which fully 4000 men are employed. These men are made up largely of the foreign element, and are generally conceded to be the most stabborn when it comes to labor adjustment. It may be taken for granted that the mining organizations employing these 4000 men will not acceed to the demands when made, so a general tie up is apparently certain.

This will mean 4000 or more idle men at Bingham, a score or more of large organizations will be forced to close down their mines until an adjustment is reached. The strike may spread to the smelter men of the valley, foreing a close-down of the several smelters in the valley, and to such other mining companies, it may be stated as a general and positive rule, are not in favor of granting the advance, and no other alternative is left other than a complete shut-down of activity. The men asking for, or who will ask for, the 50 cent increase per day, are now making from $2.75 to 53 per day under the pres cent increase per day, are now making from $2.75 to $3 per day under the present schedule.

It was generally thought when the voluntary raise was granted last De country raise was granted last De-cember to the men that a tendency to strike was forming among the Bing-ham miners. It was also thought that the trial of Haywood and Mover in Idaho was a brake upon the strike in-clination, but with the acquittal of the former, who undoubtedly was unwilling to have any more labor agitation than former, who undoubtedly was unwilling to have any more labor agitation than possible during his incarceration, and the expected acquittal of the other Idaho defendants, the brake has been released, and the demands are expected at any time. It is thought that the determination of the mining companies not to attempt to mine during the strike will tend to do away with any trouble that would follow a determination to operate the mines with other than the dissatisfied men. It would seem that this intention of closing down means just that and closing down means just that and nothing else.

Bingham has been greatly handicapped during its rejuvination period by the lack of competent labor. The great concentrating works at Garfield and the new smelter, on the point both have been forced to employ unskilled labor where the most competent mill and smelter men were almost necessary to a successful operation of the plants. This lack of labor has gone hand in hand with the lack of railroad facilities, keeping the camp back far beyond the expectations of the organizations which have been and are spending millions to save the low metallic contents of Bingsave the low metallic contents of Bingham ores.

The question is being asked by mining men, is Utah too prosperous? Has the State been enjoying too great a freedom from labor troubles, while other localities, both east and west, have been sadly torn by labor dissentions? The general trend of opinion is pessimistic, and Salt Lake talent looks for the State to have its baptism of fire through strikes yet this looks for the Slate to have its bap-tism of fire through strikes yet this season. The effect of a general close-down of Bingham mines is appalling, the demands will be made at a most inopportune time. The present uncer-tainty in the copper metal market, the refusal of the consumer to enter the market for the metal, have created a most depressing effect them. most depressing effect from the copper stock market. Utah stocks have suf-fered along with the rest, and labor troubles will do anything but help clear the atmosphere. the atmosphere.

BEAVER COUNTY HAS ITS ENOCH ARDEN

Fascinating History of Vicksburg Group in Star Mining District.

Always there is romance in mining. More often, however, it goes only as deep as the pocketbook, seldom to the heart. Down in the county of Beaver is a property that has surrounding it one of the most fascinating romances that could be invented by the brain of the most fertile fictionist alive. If its story, as related to The Tribune Tuesday, has ever been printed, it was so long ago that those once familiar with the same must have lost sight of it in the meantime. the same mus the meantime.

The property is known as the Vicks burg, and it is located in the Star dis burg, and it is located in the Star dis-trict, surrounded by many of the prominent Beaver county mines whose achievements at present are making most honorable mining history for Utah. The group consists of five patented claims, and Salt Lake capi-talists, among whom are M. B. Whit-ney, H. S. Hutchins, J. P. Fowler and the Young brothers, now hold the con-trol of the company. trol of the company.
In the carliest days of Benver county

In the earliest days of Beaver county mining there was an Eastern man whose confidence in the Vicksburg was unwavering for many seasons of poorly resulting development work. Little or nothing was known of his past life, nor was the great secret of his life unfolded until he was upon his death bed. He came from Maine. He had a wife and several children back in the old home, and he determined to come west to seek his fortune. The years passed by all full of the toughest sort of bad luck, and gradually the home ties were broken altogether; this must have taken fifteen or twenty years.

But had luck can not endure forever. He struck it rich upon the Vicksburg,

He struck it rich upon the Vicksburg, and from one small ore chutche ex-tracted over $30,000. With a comfort tracted over $30,000. With a comfortable fortune he returned to the old home in Maine, determined to make amends for the many years of past neglect of wife and family. Upon arriving at his former home he found that his wife, thinking him dead, had married again, and his own children had grown up to manhood and wormhood. grown up to manhood and womanhood. There also was a family by the second

There also was a marriage.

Without making his identity known to anyone whatever, much less his wife and children, he came west again a broken-hearted man. He came back to the Vicksburg, but died soon after. The man who nursed him during the the Vicksburg, but died soon after. The man who nursed him during the last days of his illness was given the property by his friends. Several days ago a mining man, thoroughly familiar with the Vicksburg system of veins, came to this eity for the purpose of securing some sort of a contract or concession to begin work upon the group. He claimed to have discovered the converging point of the vein system, and was certain a shaft driven at this point would uncover a wealth of rich ore. It may be that he will carry his point, and the Vicksburg may be the next Star district property to join the long list of active organizations.

The interesting history of the prop The interesting history of the property and its former owner, and the rich rock already produced by the group at thallow levels, all lend an interest to the Vicksburg seldom attaching to a mining proposition, and should the owners begin operations, they will be closely watched by local and Beaver county mining circles.

MANAGER OREM WILL

Yerington Interests Demand All His Time and Attention From Now on.

From Boston Tuesday came the word that Walter C. Orem, who has served in the capacity of manager for the Utah Apex company for manager for the Utan Apex company for many years, had asked the Boston end of the organization to be relieved from the active duties incident to such office. When application was made at the local offices of the company it was learned that Mr. Orem at present is not in the city, but the resignation was acknowledged by Orem at present is not in the city, but the resignation was acknowledged by others identified with the company.

The resignation of Mr. Orem does not come as a great surprise to his many Salt Lake friends. The one purpose that prompted the step is generally appreciated here, and that is the press of personal business that takes up practically all of his time. Mr. Orem is manager of the Nevada Douglas Copper and the Yerington Consolidated Copper and the Yerington Consolidated Copmanager of the Nevada Poligias Cop-per and the Yerington Consolidated Cop-per companies of Yerington, both of which demand more time on his part than he has been able to give, owing to the Bingham properties under his charge. It was an expected step, there-fore, for him to relinquish hold on the fore, for him to relinquish hold on the latter.

Mr. Orem leaves the Utah Apex company after many long years of faithful service. He took hold of the organization when it owned a mere prospect in Bingham, and since that time, by adding to the original boundaries of the group, and by development work far in the heart of the company a far in the heart of the company's possessions, he has brought the Utah Apex ground up to an excellent standard of perfection. The property is producing splendid ores and plenty of them, taking pace set by the leaders of the district with ease in the task of marketing rich red metal rock. The property is at such a stage of development that it requires the contract of the manager and Mr. Compared to the manager a far in the heart of the compan tire time of the manager, and Mr. Orem will turn over to his successor an ideal proposition from a mining standpoint The relations existing between him and the company are of the friendliest, and he will serve as manager until his suc-cessor is appointed and duly inducted From that time on Mr. Orem will give his entire attention to the Yerington properties now under his charge.
